AMBLER – Ambler Savings Bank branches celebrated Community Banking Month in April collecting canned food for Philabundance as a way to give back to their communities. The four branches, in Ambler, Schwenksville, Fairview Village, and Limerick, raised a combined total of 459 pounds of food that will be used by Philabundance to help provide for more than 75,000 individuals each week.

The inaugural food drive at the local, community bank ran April 1 through 30 and food was donated by employees, customers and community members.

"We are very grateful to the employees, customers and community members that stepped up and donated food items to this food drive," said Roger Zacharia, Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer. "Ambler Savings Bank is here to serve our community, and our community showed it will come out to help us serve those less fortunate amongst us."
